

Ms. Kenny's Speech Class

This week in speech and language therapy, Ms. Kenny's students explored a fall-themed sensory bin filled with picture cards featuring autumn vocabulary words. Using a magnetic fishing pole, students "caught" cards from the bin and matched each to a sentence strip, creating a fun, engaging, and sensory-rich environment for learning. This activity supported various language and literacy skills, including vocabulary development, grammar, categorizing, descriptive language, following directions, and expanding utterances. In small group sessions, students also practiced essential social language skills such as turn-taking, collaborating with peers, making social comments, and asking questions. This interactive approach helped students build confidence and develop communication skills in a safe, supportive setting.
