Noticing the Good

MBK Trip to Baltimore

MBK students recently embarked on an inspiring trip to Baltimore, Maryland, where they visited Morgan State University and the Reginald F. Lewis Museum. The visit to Morgan State provided students with a firsthand look at one of the nation's premier historically Black colleges and universities (HBCUs), highlighting its rich history, academic excellence, and vibrant campus life. At the Reginald F. Lewis Museum, students explored powerful exhibits celebrating African American history and culture, gaining deeper insights into the resilience and contributions of Black communities. This meaningful experience combined education, history, and inspiration, leaving a lasting impact on all who attended.
