

TRASHION SHOW

MS. DE LOS SANTOS

DAZLYN DELAROSA

- So here we have a lot of stuff going on. So first we have the dress that wasn't really that hard to make, besides the cutting. It was made out of an unknown fabric material from its original form. The dress has pink flowers if you look close enough and the back is a little longer than the front which unintentionally looked awesome. The bow tie was also made from old cloth. It was about 3 feet of length and gave me a hard time to tie the bow part of it. Moving onto the jacket, (ok mostly everything was made from partly the same material but came out great!) I had to look up how to make a jacket out of this piece because I had no clue what to do and it really did help, but the jacket is a bit uneven (it is weird, but I am proud of that part). I like that because it makes it look like I made it out of recyclable things which I did that's why I like the uneven part of it. Lastly, the gloves. These gloves were made from sleeves from a large white t-shirt that my mom allowed me to cut and were not very hard to do. And that is FASHION-TRASHION!!!

DIANA TORRES

- These pants were made from a garage bag. I cut the bag to the right size, then I sewed the bag together to make pants.

REBECA OPORTO

- The things I used for my outfit are: 2 plastic bags, pink and burgundy nail polish, three bottle caps, tape, scissors, a toilet paper roll, 5 heart stickers that I took out from a product from micro, an old piece of a key chain, and an old scholastic paper.
