

The Big Catch

One day three best friends walked past a store and saw a poster for a fishing contest. It said "If you can catch the four smallest fish in the lake you will win one hundred million dollars". The three men thought, "If I become rich, I could get a lot of girls". So they went fishing.

They were very poor, had to trade their shoes to rent a fishing rod and boat and used their clothes for bait. While they were in the middle of the pond one of the guys, Sam, got a nibble. It was one of the small fish. After an hour there was a tug, but the fish was gone and so was their bait. After hours and hours the only thing left for bait was a very old, smelly sock. Larry said a small prayer, smiled and put the smelly sock on he hook. After a few moments, there was a tug. He had hooked the biggest fish in the pond, which made the man at the contest counter laugh.
